Section H: Comprehension (7m)

Read the passage below carefully. Then answer the questions carefully.

There was a monkey who loved coconuts. Whenever it looked in the river and saw the fishes swimming, it thought, 'It would be nice to have fish instead of coconuts.'

One day, two fishermen came to the riverbank carrying a big net. The monkey watched them as they stretched the net across the river. Then, the men let the net drop into the river. Many fishes swam into the net. Now it knew how to catch some fishes.

The monkey quickly found an old net and dragged the heavy net to the river excitedly.

At the river, the monkey tied one end of the net to a tree branch. However, it lost its balance and fell into the water. The monkey could not swim. It got tangled up in the net and nearly drowned.

When the fishermen returned, they laughed at the silly monkey. They quickly pulled the monkey out of the river. The monkey ran back to its tree and never tried to catch a fish again.

Choose the correct answer.

The monkey wished he could _____.

- ✓ A) eat a fish
- B) collect lots of coconuts
- C) swim with the fish in the river
