Section G: Comprehension (10 marks)
Read the passage carefully and answer questions.

Annual plants, such as sunflowers, live a year or less. They grow best in fertile soil that gets ample water and bright sunlight. Sunflowers are native flowers of America.

A sunflower produces hundreds of seeds which are found in the flower head. The sunflower has two kinds of petals on its flower head. The disk petals, arranged spirally, are in the middle of the head and are usually brown. The outer petals are called yellow ray petals. They can also be orange or red. These petals help to attract insects and birds for pollination.

People collect sunflower seeds for many uses. They can be salted or roasted and are sold as snacks. Sunflower seeds with black seed coats are crushed to release the oil. People use the oil in their cooking or as dressing for salads.

Sunflower petals are used as tea to treat sore throats. The petals can also be used as a sprinkle for salads or in sandwiches. Long ago, people even used sunflower petals to dye clothes.

Sunflowers are giants among garden plants. Not only are they tall, but their flowers can also be bigger than a plate! However, sunflowers do not last through winter and they usually wither by the first frost.

Section H: Comprehension

Read the passage carefully and answer questions.

This section is designed for extended answers that parent/ teacher will have to assign and guide child to attempt after the test has been completed.

Grading: This question type is not graded on this system and will not affect the final score as it was designed in such a way that it requires manual assistance.

As a student, Albert Einstein struggled in school yet he was one of the most brilliant men that the world has known.

Growing up, Albert always wondered about things around him. At five years old, he became fascinated with a compass given by his father. He explored the compass endlessly turning it upside down and sideways. He wondered why the needle of the 5 compass always pointed to the same direction.

Always curious, Albert wanted to know how things worked. That led him to read books and conduct countless experiments on the subject.

Albert had a mother who encouraged him to be a thinker. She taught him how to play the violin. He enjoyed playing the instrument because it calmed his active mind. 10

Unfortunately, Albert's experience in school was awful. As he did not have many friends, he kept mostly to himself. His school principal once commented, "Albert will never make a success of himself at anything." Wanting to prove his principal wrong, Albert worked hard and finally excelled in school.

The amazing Albert Einstein travelled the world, sharing with others his knowledge 15 in science. In time, he was awarded the Nobel Prize. Albert Einstein was truly a great scientist!
