Comprehension 1 (10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the following questions.

Once upon a time, there lived a farmer in a village. He had a big garden that had an old apple tree. When the farmer was a little boy, he spent much of his time playing with the apple tree and the animals living in it. Those days, the apple tree had given the choicest of apples to him. However, the apple tree became old and stopped bearing fruits.

The farmer decided that the apple tree was useless and wanted to chop it down to use its wood to make some new furniture. He forgot that the apple tree was home to several animals like the squirrels, birds and insects. When the farmer took his axe and began chopping the tree, all the little animals came rushing down.

They gathered round the farmer and pleaded, "Please don't cut the tree. This is our home and we have no other place to go"

However, their protests fell on deaf ears. Despite all their requests, the farmer was insistent. He raised his axe and continued to chop down the tree.

Suddenly, he noticed something shiny. On inspecting it, he realized that it was a beehive, full of honey. He took a little and put it in his mouth. The honey tasted so good that it brought a sense of happiness to him. Suddenly, the memories of his childhood came rushing back. He smiled and exclaimed, "This tastes amazing."

Finally, the farmer realised his mistake and put down his axe. He understood that the tree was home to many animals that provided him with many fond memories.

He dropped the axe and said to the little creatures, "I promise that I would never cut this tree. You can now live in peace and harmony."

The little creatures thanked the bees profusely. If the farmer had not found the beehive, they would have been homeless. They continued living happily in the old apple tree.

Why did the apply tree stop bearing fruits?

Accepted answers:

✓ It became old.

The farmer decided that the apple tree was useless and wanted to chop it down to use its wood to make some new furniture. He forgot that the apple tree was home to several animals like the squirrels, birds and insects. When the farmer took his axe and began chopping the tree, all the little animals came rushing down.

They gathered round the farmer and pleaded, "Please don't cut the tree. This is our home and we have no other place to go"

However, their protests fell on deaf ears. Despite all their requests, the farmer was insistent. He raised his axe and continued to chop down the tree.

Suddenly, he noticed something shiny. On inspecting it, he realized that it was a beehive, full of honey. He took a little and put it in his mouth. The honey tasted so good that it brought a sense of happiness to him. Suddenly, the memories of his childhood came rushing back. He smiled and exclaimed, "This tastes amazing."

Finally, the farmer realised his mistake and put down his axe. He understood that the tree was home to many animals that provided him with many fond memories.

He dropped the axe and said to the little creatures, "I promise that I would never cut this tree. You can now live in peace and harmony."

Why did the animals gather around the farmer?

- A) They wanted to play with the farmer.
- B) They wanted the farmer to live together with them.
- ✓ C) They wanted to stop the farmer from chopping down the apple tree.

Comprehension 2 (10 Marks)

Read the following passage carefully and answer the following questions.

Sammy and his sister Marie visited their grandparents at the countryside during the school holidays. One afternoon, Sammy picked up a slingshot to play in the woods. He practised all afternoon but he could never hit the target. Getting a little discouraged, he headed back for lunch. As he was walking back, he saw Grandmother's pet duck.

On impulse, he let the slingshot fly and it hit the duck square in the head and killed it. In a panic, he hid the dead duck in a pile of wood. Marie has seen all of it from the window but she said nothing. The next day, after lunch, Grandmother said, "Marie, let's wash the dishes." Marie replied, "But Grandma, Sammy told me he wanted to help in the kitchen."

Then she whispered to Sammy, "Remember the duck?" Sammy got nervous as he realised that his sister knew about the duck. If he did not obey Marie, she would tell their grandparents about it. So without saying a word, he washed the dishes.

Later that day, Grandfather asked the children if they wanted to go fishing but Grandmother said, "I'm sorry but I need Marie to help me make dinner." Marie just smiled and said, "Well, that's all right because Sammy told me he wanted to help you."

She whispered again to Sammy, "Remember the duck?" So Marie went fishing and Sammy stayed to help even though he wanted very much to go fishing. After several days of being taken advantage of by Marie, Sammy finally could not stand it any longer. He went to Grandmother and confessed that he had killed the duck.

Grandmother knelt down, gave him a hug and said, "Sweetheart, I know. I was standing at the window and I saw the whole thing. Because I love you, I forgive you. I was just wondering how long you would let Marie take advantage of you."

Sammy smiled. He was relieved that he could enjoy the rest of his remaining school holidays.
