Section F: Comprehension 1 (10m)

Our Science teacher, Mr Tan, gave us a project to work on for Earth Day. The topic was about saving the world. I wanted to do a project on recycling trash. I went to the library to do my research. I was browsing the books on the shelves when I saw a book titled "Save the Sea Turtle". I sat at a table and began reading it.

5

I found out that almost all species of sea turtles are endangered. Their eggs are overharvested. They are killed for their meat and shells. I saw a picture of a dying turtle that was stuck in a fishing net. Sea turtles will soon be extinct if we do not do something! My heart sank at that thought. I knew at once that saving sea turtles would be the focus of my project.

10

I decided to research more about sea turtles on the internet. I found different organisations that might be able to help me. I decided to send an email to them to ask what I could do to help the sea turtles. After a few days, an officer from River Safari replied to my email. She invited me to her office to discuss about my project.

I informed my teacher what I had done. He was proud of my dedication towards this project when he found out how much time I had spent on it. After a few weeks of research and visiting River Safari, I was ready to present my project to my class.

On the day of my presentation, I hung posters in my classroom and gave out leaflets to my classmates. I did a presentation to my classmates to inform them about the sea turtles and what we could do to help. A few weeks later, I was chosen to present my project during assembly. I was glad that I was able to create an awareness about these beautiful creatures. I hope that more people would join in the fight to save them.

Comprehension 2 (10m)

Do you know that like people, a computer can get "sick" too? When the computer is infected by a computer virus, its system slows down. It can also become unusable or damaged.

A computer virus is a programme that is harmful to computers. It is not easily removable when found. There are many types of computer viruses and they have different purposes. Most of the viruses are designed by computer programmers to erase the information and can damage existing programmes. Some viruses even steal information like passwords, bank account numbers and e-mail addresses.

Computer viruses are invented by computer programmers with bad motives. The viruses enter computers through devices like thumb drives and the internet. For example, Michael, a ten-year-old student, learnt this the hard way. His computer became infected because his classmate, Roy, copied a file for their school project from Michael's computer using a thumb drive. Earlier on, Roy had used the thumb drive to download a video game from the internet. He did not know that there was a virus in the game. When Roy inserted his thumb drive into Michael's computer, his computer also became infected because the anti-virus programme was not working properly.

Another way of contracting computer virus is through the internet. The internet is full of resources that you can use for your schoolwork. It is also a source of entertainment such as video games and movies. However, they can be distracting and you must not get addicted to them. When you download some of these files and install them into your computer, a virus can also get into your computer.

Email attachments are files that are sent along with an email message and they can also be used to spread viruses. Be very careful when you open any of the attachments.

Lastly, always install an up-to-date anti-virus software. These software can monitor and remove harmful viruses in the computer. You can buy them online or at computer shops. Remember to seek guidance from adults or professionals before installing anything.

How does the computer get "sick"?

- ✓ A) It is infected by a virus
- B) It has too many video games.
- C) It is used by many different people
- D) It has not been switched off when no one is using it
