Robert Bruce was the king of Scotland hundreds of years ago. He was a courageous and majestic king who fought hard to keep his country safe. At that time, England was at war with Scotland. Six times, Robert Bruce and his army were beaten. In the end, the king was forced to hide in the woods.

One rainy day, Robert Bruce took shelter in a cave. He was tired and about 5 to give up hope. He did not think he could ever win the war.

As he lay thinking about what he should do next, he noticed a spider getting ready to spin her web. He watched her as she tried to throw her thread from one edge of the cave wall to another. Each time, she fell off but without fail, she climbed back up. It happened six times and he thought that the spider would give up. To his 10 surprise, she tried again for the seventh time.

Instead of throwing her thread to the other edge of the cave wall, the spider swung herself out. Her fine, silky thread was carried safely to the cave wall. The spider had finally succeeded. Comprehension 2

Once, there lived a farmer and his wife. For a long time, they could not have a child no matter how hard they prayed. After some time, the farmer found a mongoose. The couple raised and looked after it like it was their own child. Soon after, the couple was blessed with a son. As the little boy grew up, he and the mongoose were like brothers. They always played together and never failed to make up even on the rare occasions when they fought. The mongoose also looked after the little boy. 5

One day, the farmer was busy at his fields. The farmer's wife had left for the market. The little boy was fast asleep in his cradle and the mongoose was lying below it. A cobra got into the house and slithered towards the little boy. The mongoose realised this and jumped in defence. It fought hard against the cobra as soon as the cobra began its attack. The mongoose finally bit and killed the cobra. 10

A few minutes later, the relieved mongoose saw the farmer's wife returning from the market. It scampered happily towards the door to greet her. However, the farmer's wife saw the blood around its mouth and paws and was horrified. She immediately came to the conclusion that the mongoose must have attacked her son. 15

Without pausing to think, the farmer's wife took a long stick and hit the mongoose repeatedly on its head. She then ran into the house. She was stunned to see a dead cobra lying on the floor near her son who was still sound asleep in his cradle. Having realised her mistake, she ran out and found the mongoose dead. She wailed in sorrow and wished that she had thought before she acted. Unfortunately, it was too late. 20
