Section G: Comprehension

Rummaging through my bag for the third time, I still could not find my science homework.

"Seth, how could you have misplaced it?" Mrs Lim, my science teacher, probed. Clueless, I looked at her. Just then, Ken offered to help me look for it.

"What a mess!" Ken cried as he peeped into my bag. 5

Ken emptied the contents from my bag. There were loose worksheets, files, a planner and stationery. Among them were an empty can and a half-eaten cookie. Annoyed, Mrs Lim asked me to discard the two items.

I never seemed to be able to find my things and it was frustrating. During recess, Ken and I remained in class to discuss ways to solve my problem. We decided that I could write my homework in the planner and highlight them to help me remember. 10

Next, we looked at all my files and worksheets. Ken first suggested that I paste a label on each file and write the subject on it. I nodded in agreement. He then gave me some of his dividers to help me organise the worksheets in the files. After sorting everything, I resolved to set aside time on every Friday to sort and file my worksheets correctly. 15

With Ken's constant reminders, I was able to stay organised and never lost another assignment again.

Section H: Comprehension

'Project I Am' – an organisation to help the homeless - was started by an eight-year-old boy, Jackson, as well as his parents. Jackson's interest to help others first began when he helped his aunt to distribute food to the homeless people in his hometown. Upon seeing many homeless people, he was not only depressed but also baffled. Unable to contain his curiosity, Jackson asked his 5 parents, "Why are there so many homeless people? I thought everybody has a house to stay in. Can we give every homeless person a house?"

"Son, I don't think that is possible," his father replied. Upon hearing that, Jackson was disappointed as he really wanted to help the homeless people. To show that he cared, he would always donate his pocket money to the homeless 10 people whenever he saw them on the street.

Seeing how insistent Jackson was to help others, his parents helped him think of a plan. Since many people were already donating food, Jackson and his parents wanted to do something different. They decided to give out free Blessing Bags which contained hand-warmers, socks, wet wipes, hand sanitisers, 15 toothbrushes and toothpaste.

The first experience of distributing the bags was memorable for Jackson. For the very first time, he felt like he was making a difference in someone's life when he saw the recipients' happy faces. He realised then that it was easy to forget how the basic items in the bag could help someone. These 20 were items that someone living on the street would need which others often took for granted. He was inspired to do more.

Subsequently, Jackson's parents helped him turn his small project into something big, and that was how 'Project I Am' started. Over time, more people, even strangers, began to contribute items to put into the bags. Since then, Jackson 25 has helped over 30 000 people in his community and beyond - and his dream to help others keeps growing, one Blessing Bag at a time.

Why was Jackson surprised to see so many homeless people?
