The Process of Creative Writing

The six steps to having great ideas are:

Step 1 - Gather your information

Gather information by observing people and the world around you. Take interest in how people live, what they think and why they behave in a certain way. Also, read widely. Read the newspapers as well as novels. Do your research and write down interesting facts.

Step 2 - Sift through the information

See how all the information can fit together. Find the link between some of them. While doing this, you may have more ideas coming to you. The more you sift through the information, the more ideas you will have and the better you will understand them.

Step 3 - Let the information grow

The next stage is to let the information grow and develop in your mind. It's a good idea to do something else for a while. Listen to some music or go for a walk to relax and to stimulate your imagination and emotions. As you do this, the magical moment may suddenly appear.

Step 4 - The magical moment! Let the ideas flow

It's at this stage that you will suddenly know what you want to write about. The ideas will just flow spontaneously. But if it does not happen, don't give up. Keep writing down the ideas that you have and be patient. The magical moment will happen.

Step 5 - Shape your idea

Shape your idea into something real. This is the climatic point of your writing.

Step 6 - Share your idea

Show your idea to others and see what they think. They may be able to add to it and make it better. They may introduce new ideas, and so the process becomes even more creative!

What is the purpose of having the Young Writers Festival?

- A) Writers can come together to debate their ideas
- B) Writing mentors can get together to celebrate their work
- ✓ C) Budding writers are provided the opportunity to learn from the professionals
- D) Different projects that writers have undertaken as a student are showcased.

Question 62

Primary 5 English » Primary 5 English (Term 1)

My family and I were taking a well-deserved vacation to Disneyland. I had never been there before and was eagerly anticipating the magical experience it promised.

There was another reason that this trip was special. My father was a workaholic who worked long hours. I longed to spend time with him. I wanted to be able to sit down with my father, whom I loved more than life, and just talk. It always seemed like there was never time. 5

The day finally arrived when I was allowed to pack my clothes. I chose only my favourite outfits. I threw in my autograph book and then muscled the suitcase zipper around the overflow of the clothes. I set my suitcase down on my bed and smiled. I was ready. 10

I did not get any sleep that night. I lay in my bed and stared out the window. I knew that my father's work was going to be left at home, finally.

After a brief breakfast, we hit the open road. It was all smooth sailing for the first couple of hours until I unexpectedly felt a sharp jerk. We coasted to the side of the road, and my father said something about the engine being shot. He decided that the easiest 15 thing to do would be to flag someone down and get a ride to town.

An hour later, my father was still waving his hands at each and every passing car but it was not doing any good. Not a single soul would stop to assist my helpless family. Finally, my father gave up and decided to walk into town. I was certain it was a very long distance. I pleaded with him to stay and try again, but he was deaf to my pleading. He 20 just said that he would not let anything ruin this trip for me. My heart ached as he put on his coat and began to walk away from our car. My father had a back problem, and he was too stubborn to admit that he was not in any condition to even walk a couple of kilometres.

Then I saw a figure out of the window. It was a lone trucker. I looked around for his truck. I did not see it until I realised that his truck was parked on the other side of the road. 25 He had walked across four lanes to get to us. The feeling I felt at that moment was indescribable. Not one other person had taken time out of his or her own selfish life to stop and see if everything was okay, but this man was different. He did not even know us, and he did not expect anything in return.

My father got his ride back to town and our car was repaired. My visions of Mickey 30 Mouse were rekindled, and so was my faith that angels do exist. It was of that man's actions that my father and I had the opportunity to grow close again. I still cherish my genuine Mickey Mouse autograph as it serves as a warm memory of the time spent with my father. None of this would have been possible if that man had not given us the gift that he did – the gift of kindness. 35
