Old Town

Bringing Street Food Back

In a food paradise like Singapore, restaurants, cafes, coffeeshops and hawker centres are a dime a dozen. Yet, Mr and Mrs Roland Tan missed the ambience of eating at roadside stalls. They shared fond memories of the simple and comforting local fare served along the old food streets near their childhood homes. The couple had already established two successful restaurants, so when they founded the Old Town Food Street, the purpose was not to make profits.

"We wanted to give the people from our generation the chance to take a walk down memory lane and savour local delights prepared from makeshift carts, just like the good old days," Mr Tan said.

"Our grandchildren love local food, but they could never understand why we loved eating by the roadside so much," Mrs Tan added with a chuckle. "So, we wanted to give the younger generation a glimpse of their heritage."

Not surprisingly, the Old Town Food Street has become popular with locals and tourists of all ages. On top of a wide range of local delights, it offers a truly Singaporean dining experience.

Getting There

The Old Town Food Street is located in the heart of Singapore's city centre. It stretches between Teal Lane and Lilac Lane, right in front of the Rose Lane Shophouses. The street is closed to traffic. A public car park is accessible from Teal Lane only.

Question 62

Primary 5 English » Primary 5 English (Term 2)

Mrs Khoo had worn it only twice – once at a banquet given by a sultan and again, at the wedding of her nephew.

She would talk about its history. It had come down to her from her mother who had acquired it from her own mother. Its origin had been traced far enough. It could be ascertained that the first possessor of the jade pendant was a concubine of a Vietnamese emperor of the seventeenth century."

Mrs Khoo had decided that her daughter, Lian Kim, would inherit the jade pendant. She would not wait for her death to hand over the jewel – when Lian Kim got married, the gift would be hers.

She showed the pendant to Ah Soh, a widowed relative who made cakes and puddings for sale in the streets. Ah Soh was all gratitude when she was given the pleasure of looking at the jewel. She was full of praises and breathless with the effort of pleasing a rich relative. Mrs Khoo had allowed her and her daughter to live in a room at the back of the great house, to eat the food left on the great table and to benefit by the old clothes.

Suddenly, Ah Soh's daughter ambled in. On seeing the jewel, she crowed with childish delight, snatched it and pranced round the room, shrilly parading it on her chest. The terror of her mother who had quickly glanced up to see the look of displeasure on the face of Mrs Khoo, was itself terrifying to behold. She shrieked at the girl, snatched the jewel back, laid it reverently back in its case and began hitting her erring daughter as vehemently as she could.

As Lian Kim's wedding was approaching, Mrs Khoo had to make a difficult decision after making a quick calculation of the cost of her daughter's wedding. The jade pendant had to go. The interested party was a very wealthy lady who wanted absolute secrecy in the entire proceeding. Her offer moreover was generous. With the matter settled, Mrs Khoo was happy again, and busied about with the grand wedding preparations. At least one Minister and three Members of Parliament were expected to be present, together with numerous business tycoons.

As she stood waiting for the guests, her gaze swept briefly over the heads in that large, resplendent, chandeliered room, and rested on a spot in the far corner. She could easily pick out Ah Soh, decently dressed for once, sitting with her daughter and some relatives. Mrs Khoo wondered why the gaze, of many in the room, was fixed on the child – people were staring at her, and also whispering loudly, urgently, among themselves. The whispering and staring spread outwards in widening ripples of mounting excitement and tension.

Mrs Khoo made her way towards this focus of tremulous attention, and she too stared – not at the face but at the jewel that rested awkwardly on the flat child-like chest. The jade pendant! The girl crowed with pleasure, and her mother, who sat very near to her holding her hand affectionately, was nodding to the faces crowding in upon them, and the frightened look was gone forever from her eyes. "How could she do that to me?" Mrs Khoo stared, in fear and incredulity.
