FIT! Cycling Club

We believe in Friends, Independence and Travel!

Suggested Route 1:

Along the Walongi River

After cycling along the highway of Grange Coast Road and North Beach Park, you will arrive at the bank of the Walongi River.

Here, slow down to take in the spectacular sights along the Walongi River. Bedazzled by the unique architecture of old shophouses and modern buildings that are lit up beautifully when the sun sets.

Suggested Route 2:

Around the Northern Loop

Take this relaxing ride through the Straits Park Connector to Woods Waterfront Park. You should also check out the new Forest Park once construction is completed.

Stop at the nearby sprawling Republic School for a break. After a drink at the canteen, head out to the newly-opened Woods Hot Spring where you could soak your legs in pails of warm spring water.

Feedback Works!

Should you come across any safety issues, please email us your concerns.

The club is delighted that the authorities have already acted on our previous feedback to replace drain covers along cycling pathways for the safety of cyclists. With these new covers, we no longer have to avoid the dangerous gaps on the drain covers.

Why cycle?

Cycling is a cheap and good form of exercise. When you cycle, you exercise almost all your muscles. The repeated movement of the legs strengthens the muscles in your lower back. Steering and pedalling the bicycle develop your coordination skills.

Other health benefits of regular cycling include:

- strengthened bones
- decreased body fat levels
- improved posture and coordination
- improved mental and physical health

Studies have found that children who cycle regularly:

- are fit and healthy
- are more focussed in their learning

DID YOU KNOW?

- ✓ Cycling is the second most popular outdoor activity.

Why is the word FIT written in entirely capital letters in "FIT! Cycling Club"?

- A) It is followed by an exclamation mark
- B) It is to show that the word is part of a name
- ✓ C) It is formed from the first letters of other words
- D) It is to show that the word refers to health benefits related to cycling.

Question 61

Greg was worried. Dark clouds were gathering in the distance. He figured that there was just enough time to plant another row of seeds on his farm before returning home for dinner. As he dropped the last seed at the end of the row, he checked the sky again.

A greyish-black cloud of about a kilometre wide loomed ahead. Beneath it hung a funnel-shaped form, pointing towards the earth. All of a sudden, the trees in the distance disappeared quickly as if they were being sucked up by a vacuum cleaner.

Greg saw the mighty cloud. As it was closing in on him like a predator would on its prey, he darted towards his tractor. There was no time to lose. Greg sped towards the row of trees in front of him, dived headfirst through a hole in the wire fence and clung tightly to the nearest tree trunk. There was a strange, threatening silence. He could hear only the pounding of his heart. Then, there was an explosive sound and he felt a heavy blow on his back. He dug his face quickly into the ground as the violent storm swept over him.

When the spinning of the raging wind and the roaring sounds had stopped, Greg raised his head slowly. He was sprawled on the ground. Dazed, Greg stood up. He shook his head in disbelief. Something was wrong. Had he been confused about his directions? Where was the barn? Where were the chicken houses? However, all he saw was a mountain of wreckage. Uprooted trees lay haphazardly on the ground, their roots hanging limp. Almost everything lay in disorganised heaps from as far as he could see.

Fearfully, he looked into the distance for his house. Miraculously, only parts of the roof were dangling from the trees that were still standing. Where was his family? He scrambled closer to where his home was. He prayed hard that nothing had happened to his family.

Earlier that morning, Greg's wife, Emily, had not turned on the radio. She had not heard the tornado warnings. By the time she had finished baking a cake and some cookies, it was almost lunchtime. While waiting for her cookies to cool, she noticed that it was raining. Suddenly, a deafening crash startled her. The house shuddered violently, causing the kitchen windows to pop out from their frame.

"Joe! Quick! Run down to the basement!" Emily shouted. Mother and son dashed to the basement and crouched beneath the wooden stairs. Instinctively, Emily pushed Joe down flat and held him tightly for what seemed like hours. Finally, the wind stopped.

"Mum, that was quick thinking on your part. Otherwise, I would have been lifted by the tornado," said Joe appreciatively.

Emily forced a weak smile and replied, "Thank goodness it's all over. I hope your dad comes home safe and sound."
