Question 62

|---|----|
| Peter and Hamid were neighbours. Although Hamid was a year older, they got on like a house on fire. They sought each other's opinions before buying a new toy or book they both liked. Peter had toy trains while Hamid had toy cars. Peter had things like jigsaw puzzles and Hamid had games like Scrabble. In this way, when they shared their toys, their combined collection became very big. | 5 |
| Peter's favourite toy was his set of bow and arrows. His uncle who lived overseas had bought the set for him. The arrows had golden tips that shone in the sun. His uncle had taught him how to use the bow and arrows when he visited Peter last year. Peter practised hard and became very good at it. He could hit the bull's-eye most of the time. He was proud of his precision and skill. He treasured his bow and arrows and kept them properly so that they would not be damaged or broken. | 10 |
| Hamid learnt from Peter how to use the bow and arrow. He was not as good as Peter as he had less practice. One day, Peter came down with measles and had to stay at home for a few days to recuperate. He polished the golden tips of the arrows until they shone. Then, he lent the bow and arrows to Hamid who had a good time practising with them. | 15 |
| Unfortunately, Hamid accidentally broke the bow. The next morning, he returned the damaged bow and apologised to Peter profusely. Unfortunately, they fell on deaf ears. Peter stared at the bow speechlessly for a moment. When he found his voice, he started shouting at Hamid. He accused Hamid of breaking the bow deliberately. Hamid was offended but kept on apologising. Peter forgot the good times he had had with Hamid and the number of times he had borrowed or used Hamid's toys. | 20 |
| In a rage, Peter grabbed his broken bow from Hamid. He was so upset that he broke his arrows and threw them away. Peter's mother managed to coax the story out of him later during dinner. That night, while everybody was sleeping, she took the bow and repaired it. When it was fixed, she left it by Peter's bedside. The next morning, she expected to see Peter looking happy when he woke up. Instead, she heard him crying in his room. She hurried in and learnt that Peter had had a confrontation with Hamid. Moreover, in his anger, he had said some harsh words that he did not mean and had hurt his friend's feelings. | 25 |
| Peter's mother talked to him about his foolishness. Peter saw where he had gone wrong. He agreed to apologise to Hamid and would do his best to win his good friend back. To make up for his foolishness, Peter lent Hamid his new soccer ball for him to play with his friends in school. Hamid was very touched by this gesture. | 30 |
| A month later, Peter came home from school to a pleasant surprise. He and his friend can now improve on their archery skills. On his bed was a new set of bow and arrows with the special golden tips. His mother had arranged for his uncle to send them over. Peter hugged his mother and immediately ran out of the house to share the new set with Hamid. | 35 |
| Peter's mother smiled, knowing that Peter had learnt that nothing is more precious than friendship. From then on, Peter resolved to learn to manage his temper. | |
