Question 62

Primary 5 English » Primary 5 English (Term 4)

Oliver loved dandelions and always looked forward to his treats. It took him less than five seconds to eat an entire stem. Andy plucked dandelions for Oliver, like an explorer searching for gems, all for the sake of his pet guinea pig. By the time he reached the woods, his left pocket was stuffed with them. He could have stuffed the other pocket, too, but he was saving that for the strawberries he was determined to find. 5

Wandering in the unfamiliar woods, with Oliver tucked away safely in his backpack, Andy was certain that he could find the best strawberries there. He was so focused in his search that he barely noticed the ominous rustling sound behind him. But when he heard the shuffle of feet, his heart started pounding and he remained very still. Could it be forest beasts? The woods went quiet. 10

He did not see anything. But he was certain he had heard something. Someone, or something, was moving nearby.

"Hello, anyone there?" Andy croaked. Nothing. Andy attributed it to his vivid imagination and brushed it aside.

Moments later, he thought he heard something again. He suddenly got the idea that it might be a rhinoceros. He imagined himself being trampled on by the giant creature. But then, the shuffling sound receded and disappeared, and the woods were quiet again. Andy heaved a sigh of relief and went back to searching for strawberries. 15

"Hey, Coward!"

That startled Andy for he had not heard Tom Bullen approaching from behind. 20

There he was - face to face with Tom, the school's biggest bully. Andy stood there, feeling helpless, one pocket full of dandelions and nothing else to defend himself with. He clasped his hands and mumbled a prayer. Alone with Tom, Andy wished it had been a rhinoceros instead.

Tom took a step forward. Filled with fear, Andy took a step back. Tom must have thought it was hilarious, because he immediately broke into peals of laughter. He tilted Andy by his collar and ripped his backpack off his shoulders with ease. Tom then took off like a bullet, with Andy's backpack in his hands.

Andy pushed himself up and ran after him shouting, "Stop! Give it back!" Anxiety coursed through his veins. His school books could easily be replaced but there would only be one Oliver. Andy was desperate for a solution.

When Tom finally stopped running, Andy waited for him to open the backpack, discover Oliver, and destroy him. Instead, Tom took a giant step back, grinned evilly, and turned towards a stumpy circle of stones that Andy had never noticed before.

It was an old well. 35

Dangling the backpack over the open hole, Tom scoffed, "I'm sure Mummy wouldn't mind replacing these books for you again."
